MACKIE SINCLAIR

SHERRY SETZER

Bill Baucom, Durham, is the newly elected President of ths Student Government Association for 1976-77. Others elected to serve their fellow students were Debbie Hall of Pocomoke, Maryland, Vice-President; Mackie Sinclair of Gerton, Secretary; Sberry Setzer of Granite Falls, Treasurer; and John Linderman, Kings Mountain, Cbairman of the Student Center Board. The Student Government Association handles general student legislation and discipline in accordance to its constitution and bylaws approved by the college's board of trustees. In addition, the organization promotes the general welfare of the student body and brings about participative understanding with tbe administration and faculty. The student center board functions to expand and coordinats ths social, cultural, recreational and educational opportunities for the members of the Gardner-Webb community.

The admissions outlook for Fall, 1976, is encouraging. Botb applications and acceptances are presently running ahead of last year. Director of Admissions, R.W. Abrams '62, estimates that tha Fall anrollment will includs approximately 400 Freshmen. Ths collegs is pleased with ths continuous flow of students wbo are recommsnded by our Alumni. This is one of the finest ways in which our formsr students can "support the Webb." Incidentally, there is still room for more students for Fall ssmester. So all friends of ths Webb are encouraged to continus to send prospectivs students to the collegs during the Summer montbs.

The Rutherford-Polk County Alumni Chapter was reorganized on May 13 with more than forty msmbers in attendance. Jack Waters '59 was elected President following a program whicb was presented by Eddie Holbrook, Athletic Director and Head Basketball Coach at GWC. This brings tbe number of active Alumni chapters to 14.

Bicentennial Day was held on campus on Wednesday, April 28. The day-long program featured a special Bicentennial Chapel program, picnic lunch, recreational activities with competition between dorms, movies, vesper services and a dance. It was truly a most enjoyable day for the Gardner-Webb family.

Last Summer 141 plus Gardner-Webb students worked in church related positions in eleven states across our nation. Rev. Buddy Freeman, Campus Minister, predicts that this will be exceeded this summer. The students serve as pastors, associate pastors, music directors, education and youth directors, work with the Home Mission Board or serve as members of an evangelism team or musical group.

The resurfacing of the tennis courts has begun. Immediately upon the completion of the Spring semester the complete renovation of the existing tennis courts was started with the laying of the new asphalt base. After allowing time for the asphalt to properly cure, a lakhold topping will be applied so that our students will have a much improved facility for next Fall.

The Sears-Roebuck Foundation has presented an unrestricted grant of $2500 to Gardner-Webb College. The grant was one of 18 given by the foundation to privately supported colleges and universities in North Carolina totaling more than $39,000.

The Fellowship of Christians United in Service enjoyed its best year ever during 1975-76. Over one hundred and forty students at Gardner-Webb College had opportunities to participate in 43 revivals held throughout Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida during the year. The revival team is a most important aspect of a student's education and opportunity to share Christ. When the teams are invited to a church for a weekend revival the students live in the homes of the church members. Each student has an important part in the revival team, such as preaching, directing music, playing the organ or piano, singing solos, teaching a Sunday School class, sharing a personal testimony, or leading in fellowships. The FOCUS teams had more requests than could be fulfilled this year.

McGraw Receives Honorary Degree From Campbell College

DR. THOMAS J. McGRAW

Thomas J. McGraw, acting president of Gardner-Webb College, received the honorary dsgree of Doctor of Laws during the 89th annual spring commencement exercises of Campbell College on May 10.

The honor, according to Dr. Norman A. Wiggins, president of Gardner-Webb's sister institution, near Raleigh, was in consideration of McGraw's major contribution to the development of Gardner-Webb as a senior institution during its recent years of advance to senior collegs standing. Gardner-Webb's Southern Regional Accreditation, first received in 1972, wss reaffirmed last December by the Southern Association of Colleges and Univsrsities.

As vice-president for academic affairs since 1969, McGraw has given major leadership in the self-studies and other particulars of academic and administrative development preliminary to qualifying Gardner-Webb for its present full recognition as a senior college.

A graduate of Gardner-Webb, who has had his further higher education at Wake Forest, Appalachian State, and Duke universities, McGraw moved from public school administration to his first position at Gardner-Webb, director of development, in 1962. He has had successive additions of responsibility at vice-presidential levels, having become in 1973 executive vice-president and dean of the college. He has been serving as acting president since February of this year.

Since 1971, when be was named its alumnus of the year, Prssident Wiggins noted, he has been cited twice by trustees, faculty, and staff of his own college for outstanding contributions to its progress.

Receiving similar recognition with Dr. McGraw in ths awarding of honorary degrees during the graduation csremonies were Dr. Carlyle Campbsll, prssident emeritus of Meredith College, son of the founder of Campbsll; retiring U.S. Congressman David Henderson, who is a member of the school's prssidential board of advisors; the Reverend Jimmy Morriss, director of the A.J. Fletcher Baptist Communications Center of ths Baptist State Convsntion of North Carolina; and ths Reverend Billy Mobley of Ahoskis, immediats past prssident of ths General Board of the Baptist Stats Convention.

Gardner-Webb Receives $100,000 From Myers Estate

Gardner-Webb College will receive $100,000 from the estate of industrialist Albert G. Myers of Gastonia, N.C., who died April 15.

The gift was a portion of $1 million that Myers willed to six area collegee, Myers Msmorial United Methodist Cburch in Gastonia, and the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Greenville, S.C. Founder of Textiles, Inc., Myers left an estate worth more than $5.6 million.

"His gift will touch thousands of lives," said Dr. Thomas McGraw, acting president of the college. McGraw indicated the money will probably be used for the school's endowment fund.

A men's residence ball was constructed at Gardner-Webb and named in his bonor in 1967. He was a friend nf former Governor and Mrs. O. Max Gardner for whom ths college is named.

In his will Myers wrote that "for many years I have been deeply intsrested in smaller private colleges in this area, feeling tbat they bave contributed heavily to the building of character in our youtb and in creating in these young people greater appreciation of tbe basic value in life."

GWC Annual Preaching Clinic

Gardner-Webb Collegs will sponsor tbe seventb annual Preaching Clinic August 16-20, 1976. Tbs Clinic which is offered to freshmen and transfer ministsrial students is designed to assist the students in learning tbe techniques of sermon preparation and dslivery. The Clinic will covsr all aspects of preaching: history nf preaching, introduction, conclusion, illustration, sermon ideas, type of sermons, invitations, etc.

Rsv. Buddy Freeman, College Minister at Gardner-Webb College, coordinates tbe clinics. Hs says, "This year tbe Clinic will involve 14 lectures concerning sermon preparation, research in the library and four excellent sermons by preachers in tbe area. Also each student will preach a sermon at the conclusion of the clinic."

Rev. Freeman feels that Gardner-Webb College bas one of the best practical and academic programs available for tbe young man called of God to preach. Hs says, "Gardner-Webb College will provids many preaching opportunities for tbs students. This ie wby ws need to belp tbe ministerial students to learn the fundamentals of esrmon preparation before they enter Gardner-Webb College."

Anyone desiring additional information can contact Rev. Buddy Freeman at Box 832, Boiling Springs, North Carolina 28017.

Business Interns Gain Valuable

Ernie Spangler

This Summer eight Business Administration students are participating in a program which is designed to bridge the gap between academic theory and actual business operations. The internship program places students with cooperating business firms or other organizations for a full-time semester of work experience during their Junior or Senior year. The work experience is supervised by an individual designated by the company or organization within which the student is employed. Tha student is actually enrolled in BA 320—Internship, which earns the student 15 semester hours credit as well as providing him with valuable practical experience. The student's grada is determined by the faculty coordinator after he receives evaluations from the student and his supervisor.

The internship program was initiated in 1972 under the guidance of Mrs. Helyn Lowery and Mr. Deck Andrews of the GWC Department of Business Administration. Since that time more than 40 students have participated in the program which limits the number of students approved to participate to those chosen by a selection committee. Each then receives a highly personalized work-study experience. The participating students are given the responsibility to identify a business or agency that is interested in participating in the program. The businesses or agencies that choose to become involved are asked to make a payment of $900 to the college for the internship. This is to underwrite a tuition scholarship for the intern and to pay visitation expenses for the faculty member who supervises tha intern program.

Experience

Mr. Deck Andrews, Chairman of the Department of Business Administration is quite clear in his personal evaluation of the internship program. He states, "The semester in which our students serve as interns is by far the most meaningful semester of their four years with us." He points with pride to the list of students who have participated. It seems that nearly all of them have been successful in their chosen careers after graduation. Although it is certainly not required or expected, it is obvious that many businesses and agencies have hired their interns on a permanent basis after the student completed his or her work at Gardner-Webb.

The former GWC students who participated in the program that were asked to comment were unanimous in their praise of their internship experience. Steve Walker is now employed by First Federal Savings & Loan in Shelby, N.C., where he worked as an intern. In discussing the program, he said, "My internship experience was certainly good for me personally. I was able to get an overall view of all aspects of the business. I found that the actual experience of working in the business enabled me to learn more than I could ever learn in a classroom situation alone."

During a recent conversation with Mr. John Easterling, Vice President of Carolina State Bank in Gastonia, N.C., he expressed his feeling about the internship program by saying, "Our bank is thoroughly pleased with the program. Our intern's contribution to the bank has been significant even though he has only been here a few weeks. We are delighted to be able to expose our intern to the real world of banking. Our major goal in the program is to provide a stimulating challenge to the intern while making a contribution to his education." Certainly this is one of the finest endorsements that the program could receive. It is encouraging that his response was typical of the responses received from the participating employers.

According to Mr. Andrews, this kind of attitude among area employers is the major reason for the success of the internship program. It also is the reason he feels that future years will see even more students and employers taking part. He stands ready to discuss the program with anyone who is interested.

Commencement Exercises Dedicated To The

Three hundred eleven students received diplomas from Gardner-Webb College on May 16, along with a challenge from commencement speaker Dr. Cecil Ray to confront the awesome list of unfinished tasks in the world.

"The world has a place for the person who can see opportunity and who has something to offer," said the general secretary-treasurer of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina. "I can verify that opportunities do abound for those who know what life is all about."

Dr. Ray asked the graduates to learn the answers of the exam questions in life: Who am I? What is life all about? and Where are the opportunities?

"Christ gives us the best example in Mark 10:45," Ray said. "The key emphasis to His approach to life was to serve rather than to be served, to seek giving more than getting and to value others above self. The two big words were 'serving' and 'giving'."

"Christ calls for us to give more attention to what life means than to what life provides."

Six students received commencement awards in recognition for outstanding achievements.

Stephen McFaddin Lewis, a mathematics major from Boiling Springs, N.C. was awarded the J.D. Huggins Citizenship Medal, and Sarah Louise Ormand, an intermediate education major from Columbus, N.C., was given the Etta L. Curtis Citizenship Medal. The awards are presented to the male and female graduates exhibiting the best record in scholarship and general interest in college activities.

Miss Ormand also received the senior scholastic achievement award for ber 3.99 academic average.

The junior scholastic award was presented to Donna M. Jones of Kings Mountain with a 3.98 average. Mary Vista Jones of Shelby received the sophomore award with an average of 3.89, and Leesa Shawn Gay of Goldsboro was given the freshman award for a 4.0 average.

Dr. Thomas J. McGraw, acting president of the college, conferred honorary degrees to Mrs. Rush Stroup of Shelby and the Rev. T. Robert Mullinax of Raleigh. Mrs. Stroup, a long-time trustee and benefactor, received the doctor of humanities degree and Mullinax was given the doctor of divinity. He is Executive Secretary of the Baptist State Convention Council on Christian Higher Education.

Co-founder along with her late husband of the Eagle's Stores Company, Dr. Stroup took over the operation of the 10 store chain in 1930 upon the death of her husband and successfully directed the business through the depression-ridden '30's.

She was first elected to the college's board of trustees in 1934 and has served almost continuously, except when rotated off by policy of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina. Dr. Stroup is the only woman to have ever served as chairman of the board, being first elected to that post in 1959.

In addition, she has served as vice chairman, secretary, treasurer and member of various committees. Presently she is vice chairman of the board and chairman of the executive committee.

Dr. Stroup is the only woman in North Carolina to have served as trustee of three colleges—Gardner-Webb, Mars Hill and Wake Forest. Dormitories for women at Gardner-Webb and Mars Hill have been named in her honor and in her husband's memory.

She was named Woman of the Year by the Business and Professional Women of Shelby in 1954. Dr. Stroup is an active member of the First Baptist Church in Shelby.

Dr. Mullinax assumed his post as head of the Council on Higher Education in 1971.

A native of Cedartown, Ga., Mullinax is a graduate of Gardner-Webb College and Wake Forest University. He received his bachelor of divinity degree from the Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary.

He served as pastor of several North Carolina churches: Bunn Baptist Church, Bunn; First Baptist Church, St. Pauls; First Baptist Church, Cary; and First Baptist Church, Laurinburg.

Dr. Cecil Ray shown here presenting challenge to graduates.

Active in the realm of Christian education, Mullinax has served as president of the Youth and Education Directors' Association, Birmingham, Ala.; president of the Southeastern Seminary Alumni Association; and president of the Robeson Baptist Pastors' Conference. He has served as a member of the board of directors of "The Biblical Recorder" and currently is a member of the Special Education Study Committee of the Missouri Baptist Convention.

Mullinax has appeared as a speaker and lecturer at many churches, associations and Christian colleges throughout Nortb Carolina, and has written articles for a number of Baptist magazines and periodicals.

He and his wife, the former Rachel Smith of Mount Holly, have three sons, Tom, 21 Marc, 19; and Ben, 15. They are active members of the First Baptist Church in Raleigh.

Two members of the college faculty who died during the year were remembered for their contributions. They were Dr. J. Thurman Lewis, who served as academic dean and professor of religion and ancient languages for 11 years, and Hubert C. Dixon, wbo was chairman of the Department of Mathematics and Physics and professor of mathematics for 41 years.

Dr. Randy Carothers, chairman of the Department of Education and director of the teachers' training service, was cited for his service upon retirement. He joined the Gardner-Webb faculty in 1968.

Lilia Garcia Yavner receives her diploma from Dr. Thomas J. McGraw.

Also, plans ware announced to establish an Endowed Chair of Bible to be named for the Rev. B.E. Morris of Charlotte, a retired pastor and currently a guest lecturer in the Department of Religious Education.

Hatcher S. Elliott, pastor of Beverly Hills Baptist Church in Asheville, delivered the haccalaureate sermon.

He told ths graduates to allow God to open for tbem a meaningful life. "Life can become for you one endless round full of sound and action but signifying nothing, unless there is a divine dimension. Without this element, your education is like an automobile with a flat tire.

The real worth of your college education will not he decided on the basis of whether or not you find a good joh or whether you make a lot of money."

Rev. Elliott added that there is no suhstitute for courage in life's hattles. "Your education can help you maneuver," he pointed out, "but your morals are the strong man without which the battle is lost."

Two GWC Golfers And Coach Earn Honors

Zim Zimmerman and Jim Franklin, both of Morganton, N.C., earned NAIA All-American honors for their play in the National Tournament held recently at the Alamance Country Club in Burlington, N.C. This was the second time that Zimmerman has received the honor. The play of these two newly honored All-Americans was instrumental in the Bulldogs winning the NAIA National Golf Championship. Zimmerman is a junior and Franklin is a sophomore. The 12 low players and ties in the National Tournament make up the All-American team. The following were included in this select group:

Will Brewer—David Lipscomb College, Tennessee
Bill McIntyre—Sam Houston State, Texas
Chuck Scott—Elon College, Nortb Carolina
Tony Randall—Francis Marion College, South Carolina
Jim Franklin—Gardner-Webb College, North Carolina
David Braxton—Elon College, Nortb Carolina
Tim Scogen—Wisconsin-LaCrosse, Wisconsin
Kris Kinell—U.S. International University, California
Willis Nance—Pembroke State University, North Carolina
Mike Free—St. Bernard College, Alabama
Jan Rube—U.S. International University, California
Zim Zimmerman—Gardner-Webb College, North Carolina
Dan Sheffler—Florida Atlantic, Florida

Coach Garland Allen who has guided the GWC golfers to third place and first place in the last two national tournaments was honored as the NAIA Golf Coach of the Year. This was certainly an appropriate ending to a great year of Bulldog Athletics.

Zim Zimmerman repeats as NAIA All-American with four consistent rounds.

Dr. Garland Allen, NAIA Coach of the Year, gives instructions to Bulldog golfers.

All-American Jimmy Franklin on his way to 3rd round 73.

Bulldog Golfers Are National Champs

The 1976 Gardner·Webb Golf Team bas become the first athletic team in tbe school's history to win a National Championship. After being 7 shots out of tbe lead after the first round the Bulldog golfers played steadily each day and eventually went into tbe final nine holes only three sbots behind the team from U.S. International of San Diego, Calif. Witb tbe pressure on, tbe Gardner-Webb team members simply outplayed tbe field and stormed past U.S. International. They then withstood a cbarge by the bost team Elon College. At the end of the 72 hole tournament it was Gardner·Webb winning the National Championsbip by a single sbot witb a team score of 1193 with Elon College second at 1194. U.S. International finished tbird with 1196.

"We're tickled to death to win," stated Coach Garland Allen, "That's what we intended to do. We didn't play particularly well, certainly not as well as we're capable of playing, but we had four good scores each day, and that's what counted."

The Bulldogs displayed excellent balance from top·to·bottom. Although none of the five golfers broke par during the four·day tourney, only one turned in a round higher than 77.

Gardner-Webb had a first day score of 301 tben came back witb a 295. Tbe Bulldogs made their charge on the third day, shooting a 297 wbile playing in a cold, steady drizzle. G·W turned in a 300 score for the final round.

"We had some key holes during the final round, but probably none more important than 17 and 18, and tbe way they were played by our freshman, Wayne Myers," Allen said. "He made par on both boles and had to come out of tbe trap each time to do it. He could have folded right there and that would have been it. But he made two great pars under tremendous pressure."

Sophomore Jimmy Franklin was low scorer for the Bulldogs with rounds of 75-73-73-75 for 296. Zim Zimmerman was next with scores of 73-76-75-74 for 298. Both were named to tbe 13-man All·America team.

Myers had a four-day total of 300 wth rounds of 76-73-76-75, and Rodney Morrow was one stroke behind with scores of 77-75-73-76. Charlie Mack rounded out the effort witb rounds of 77-74-83-77.

Each member of the team made valuable contributions in the winning effort with each playing at least one outstanding round in the tournament. Of the five-man squad, two will be lost to graduation—Rodney Morrow and Charles Mack. The others—Zim Zimmerman, Jim Franklin and Wayne Myers all bave eligibility remaining and should give GWC a very strong nucleus for anotber outstanding team for 1977.

It was the fourth appearance by Gardner-Webb in the national tourney. Tbe 'Dogs finisbed fifth in 1971, 12th in 1973 and third last year.

Rodney Morrow shot a 73 during the rain·soaked third round.
